3. Unlimited Estimates

With Pro, the 3-estimate limit of the Free plan is completely removed. You can create, save, and manage as many estimates as you need — whether that's 10 a month or 200.

What This Means for Your Workflow

- Create estimates for every inquiry — even if you know only 10% will close.
- Maintain a full history of every bid you have ever submitted.

- Reopen and update old estimates when a client comes back months later.
- Duplicate similar estimates as starting points for new projects.
- Track win/loss rates by reviewing accepted vs. declined estimates over time.

TIP

Best practice: Create an estimate immediately after a site visit while measurements and details are fresh. Even rough estimates are valuable for tracking your pipeline.

Saved Estimates List

Your saved estimates are accessible from the "Saved Estimates" button in the header. The list shows up to 50 most recent estimates. Each row displays:

- Estimate Number — Auto-generated sequential number (e.g., EST-2024-001)
- Client Name — The client for this estimate
- Project Type — The trade category selected
- Quote Amount — The selected tier's total price
- Status — Draft, Sent, Accepted, or Declined
- Date Created — When the estimate was first saved

4. Word Export (.docx)

Pro users can export estimates as Microsoft Word documents in addition to PDF. Word export is ideal when you or your client wants to make minor edits to the document before finalizing.

How to Export as Word

1

Complete your estimate

Fill in all estimate details as normal.

2

Select your view

Choose "Contractor View" for the full internal version or "Client Quote View" for the client-facing document.

3

Select pricing tier

Click the tier radio (Conservative, Standard, Premium) you want reflected.

4

Click "Word"

The Word button in the Export Bar appears only for Pro users. Clicking it downloads a .docx file instantly.

5

Open and edit in Word

Open the file in Microsoft Word, Google Docs, or Apple Pages. All formatting — tables, headers, company logo, and contact info — is preserved.

Word vs. PDF: When to Use Each

- PDF — Best for final quotes sent to clients. Cannot be easily edited. Looks professional and polished.
- Word — Best when you need to add custom contract language, make last-minute edits, or work with a client who requests an editable document.

& NOTE

When sending a Word document to a client, be aware that they can edit the pricing. For legally binding quotes, PDF is recommended.

5. Full CRM — Client Management

The CRM is one of the most valuable features of the Pro plan. It transforms TTC from an estimating tool into a complete business management platform.

Adding & Managing Clients

Access the CRM by clicking the "CRM" tab in the top navigation bar.

1

Click "+ New Client"

Opens the new client form.

2

Enter client details

Required: Client Name. Recommended: Email, Phone, Address, and Source (how they found you). Optional: Tags, Company name.

3

Set pipeline status

Choose the appropriate status: Prospect, Active, Completed, On-Hold, or Declined.

4

Save

Client is added to your CRM list.

Pipeline Statuses — Detailed Guide

- Prospect — New inquiry or potential client. Has not yet received or accepted a quote. Action: Schedule site visit, send estimate.
- Active — Client has accepted a quote or has ongoing work. Action: Track project progress, communicate updates.
- Completed — All work is done and payment received. Action: Request a review, offer referral incentive, send a thank-you.
- On-Hold — Project paused by client or external factors. Action: Follow up every 2–4 weeks to check status.
- Declined — Client chose another contractor or cancelled. Action: Note the reason, remove from active pipeline.

TIP

Keeping your pipeline statuses current takes 2 minutes a day and gives you a real-time snapshot of your business health. Make it a daily habit.

Client Notes & Activity Timeline

The notes timeline in each client profile is a powerful record-keeping tool.

Adding Notes

- Open a client profile by clicking their name.
- Click "Add Note" to open the text input.
- Type your note — include dates, names, amounts, and specific details.
- Click "Save Note". It appears immediately at the top of the timeline with a timestamp.

What to Note

- Phone call summaries ("Called 6/15, client confirmed start date of 6/22")
- Site visit observations ("Property has narrow gate, will need smaller equipment")
- Client preferences ("Prefers afternoon calls, uses Benjamin Moore paint only")
- Payment tracking ("Deposit of $2,500 received via check #1042 on 6/18")
- Change orders ("Client requested addition of deck — new quote sent 6/20")
- Complaints or issues ("Neighbor complained about noise — agreed to stop by 6pm")

Estimate History per Client

Every estimate you have linked to a client appears in their profile under "Estimate History". This shows:

- Estimate number and date
- Project type and description
- Quote amount (selected tier)
- Current status (Draft / Sent / Accepted / Declined)
- A "Load" button to reopen the full estimate in the Estimator

!9 INFO

The Total Value shown on each client card is the cumulative sum of all Accepted estimates for that client. This is your lifetime revenue from that client.

Search & Filter

- Search bar — Searches across name, company, email, phone, and notes simultaneously.
- Status filter chips — Click any status label at the top of the CRM to show only that group.
- Sort options — Click column headers to sort by name (A–Z), date added (newest/oldest), or total value (highest/lowest).
- Tag filter — Filter by custom tags you assign to clients (e.g., "Commercial", "HOA", "Referral").

6. Advanced Estimate Settings

Pro users have access to per-estimate setting overrides that let you customize margins and terms on a job-by-job basis without changing your global defaults.

- Per-estimate material markup — Override your default markup for a specific job.
- Per-estimate tax rate — Add or remove tax for specific clients or jurisdictions.
- Per-estimate validity period — Extend or shorten quote validity for time-sensitive bids.
- Custom payment terms — Override your standard payment terms for commercial clients or special arrangements.

7. Managing Your Subscription

Viewing Your Current Plan

Your current plan and billing status are visible to your account admin. Contact support@xpertaisolution.com to manage billing, update payment methods, or request an invoice.

Cancellation Policy

You may cancel your Pro subscription at any time. Your account reverts to Free plan limits at the end of your current billing period. All your data is retained — you simply lose access to Pro-exclusive features.

& NOTE

If you cancel and your estimate count exceeds 3, existing estimates remain readable but you cannot create new ones until you are under the limit or resubscribe.

8. Summary: Free Plan Included

Everything in the Free plan is also included with your Pro subscription. Here is a quick reference:

- 18 project types with auto-populated formulas (Paint, Concrete, Roofing, Electrical, Plumbing, Fencing, and more)
- Smart measurements — Enter measurements once; materials, labor, and overhead calculate automatically
- Contractor View — Full cost breakdown with margins, markup, and profit per tier
- Client Quote View — Professional, branded client document with 3 pricing options
- PDF Export — Download professional PDFs for any estimate
- Print — Print directly from the browser
- Company Settings — Logo, contact info, default margins, payment terms, warranty
- Convert to Invoice — Turn any accepted estimate into an invoice in one click
- Auto-save — Estimates save automatically every 30 seconds
- Saved Estimates — Browse, load, and manage your full estimate history
- Scope of Work & Exclusions — Add detailed scope and exclusions to every estimate
- Internal Notes — Private notes on each estimate (never shown to clients)

9. Upgrading to Enterprise

The Enterprise plan ($79/month) adds:

- Team Members — Add employees or subcontractors to your account so they can create estimates under your company profile.
- Priority Support — Faster response times via dedicated email.
- Admin Command Center — Full visibility and control over all team members, billing, and activity.
- Custom onboarding — Personalized setup assistance for larger organizations.

TIP

Enterprise is ideal for companies with more than one estimator, or contractors who want dedicated support and team oversight.

10. Support

- Email: support@xpertaisolution.com
- Response time: Within 1 business day (Pro plan)
- Website: xpertaisolution.com
